

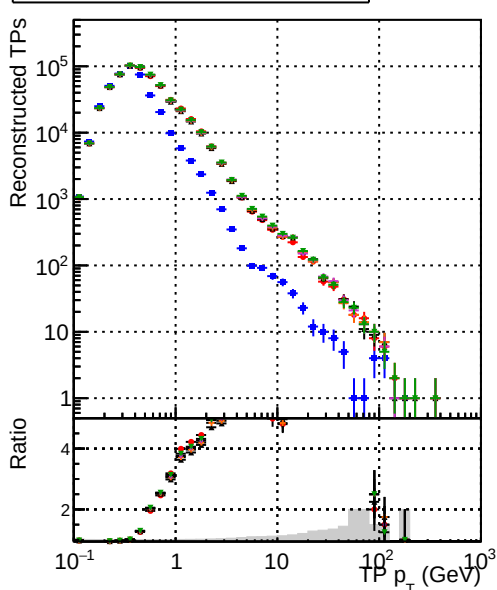

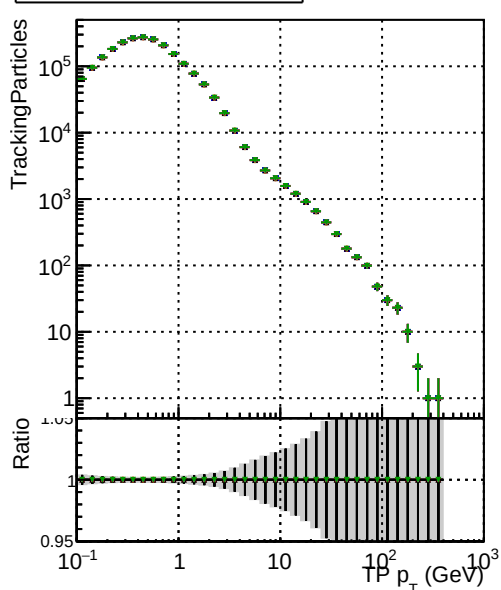

Figure 1 illustrates the generation of a new geometric template from an original template. The process involves a series of steps: original, step2, tbar, phase1, and newgeom. The diagram includes a legend for 'N of sim' with five categories: blue, red, black, green, and orange. The steps are represented by colored lines and arrows, showing the flow of information and the generation of new templates.

